

What our judges had to say

Category: Documentary Photography

In the Documentary photography category it was tough to decide but if we are focusing on the people who responded to the brief the best then I think the winner would be 'Virtual walking' as I really like the idea that her son took the photos and this is how they have been keeping active and well during lockdown by interacting with their local area and canal side - which I think a lot of people would relate to this year about engaging with local green spaces near their home.

Then highly commended would go to 'One for Sorrow, Two for Joy, Three for a Girl' as again I think they respond best to the brief.

The other entries which contain wildlife images are really beautifully shot but I'm not sure they respond to the brief as well.
